2. Overall Objective and Project Purpose

2.1 Overall Objective

The overall objective is to strengthen civil society within a participative democracy and to stimulate a civil society friendly 'environment' and culture.

2.2 Project purpose

The project aims to develop a strong regional partnership dialogue between CSOs from the region themselves and with their EU counterparts and public authorities as well as to enhance the transparency and the accountability of CSOs. In particular, the project should favour the following aspects:

- a professionally operating civil society sector,
- new CSO networks, common strategy and initiatives,
- better quality of services and good dissemination of common values in the region,
- better support of democratic issues, including raising awareness of relevant matters amongst citizens and public authorities by means of intercultural dialogue.

2.3 Link with AP / NPAA / EP/ SAA<sup>3</sup>

2.3.0 General

A principal political objective of the Western Balkans and Turkey is accession to the European Union. The Commission Communication of 5 March 2008<sup>4</sup> described the overall strategy of involving Civil Society in the accession process through the Civil Society Facility (CSF): “The goal will be to strengthen civil society bodies and their role in the political process, enhance the capacity of civil society organisations to develop cross-border projects and networks, and familiarise civil society representatives and opinion leaders with EU affairs ... the facility will promote cooperation and transfer of know-how between business, trade union, and professional organisations in the partner countries and the corresponding EU level organisations.”

The Civil Society Facility (CSF) consists of three areas of activity: (i) support for local civic initiatives and capacity-building, (ii) a “People 2 People” programme, and (iii) ‘partnership actions’ to develop networks between CSOs and to promote transfers of knowledge and experience.

The Commission Communication on the Enlargement Strategy 2008-2009<sup>5</sup> underlined the importance of the CSF to increase the participation of CSOs in the reforms to be undertaken by the Candidates and Potential Candidates for Accession. This strategy sets out to obtain public support for accession and will strongly determine the pace and quality of the accession process.

The CSF is a single facility for the benefit of all Candidates and Potential Candidates for Accession although it is implemented through both the National and the Multi-beneficiary IPA Programmes. It is financed both from the IPA Multi-beneficiary programme (managed by DG Enlargement, Directorate D) and from the national IPA programmes (managed by the European Commission Delegations or, in the case of decentralised implementation, by the relevant authorities of the Western Balkans and Turkey).

CSO developments in the Western Balkans and Turkey are summarised below:

2.3.1 Albania

CSOs monitor the respect of human rights and the fulfilment of Albania’s obligations under the SAA. However, civic engagement is low and the capacity of CSOs remains weak particularly in terms of advocacy, public relations, networking and partnership building. Nevertheless the protection of children's rights has increased. The 2008-2013 Social Protection and Social Inclusion Strategy<sup>6</sup> has set out the strategy to improve the situation of inter alia social services for children.

2.3.2 Bosnia and Herzegovina

A Memorandum of Understanding was signed in 2007 between the State-Level Council of Ministers and CSOs providing the framework for cooperation but dialogue between civil society and the BiH Government is limited. Few CSOs are country-wide. Trades unions lack official status and are registered as NGOs. Several Human Rights NGOs have received financing from the European Instrument for Democracy and Human Rights (EIDHR) for issues such as reconciliation, anti-torture, women and children’s rights but BiH has made little progress in the social protection of vulnerable people.

2.3.3 Croatia

Croatian CSOs continue to play an important role in the promotion and protection of human rights and democracy. The Government’s “National Strategy for the Creation of an Enabling Environment for Civil Society Development 2006-2011”<sup>7</sup> is based upon a broad consensus between civil society and government representatives. However, progress should be made for raising the influence of CSOs on policy debate. Further concrete actions are required to tackle child poverty, to increase protection of socially vulnerable persons and to ensure better integration, reconciliation and tolerance.

2.3.4 The former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia

The Government has adopted a strategy for cooperation with CSOs, and their active involvement in public policymaking has increased. However, the development of professional and civic associations is hampered by lack of finance and is mainly dependent upon external resources. Many sectors are not sufficiently addressed, such as the protection of economic and social rights and compliance with international rules for the protection of children's rights.

2.3.5 Montenegro

With the establishment of the Office for Cooperation, the legal framework for CSOs has been satisfactory. Nevertheless, socio-economic reform in Montenegro requires the better participation of civil society. CSOs should complement services provided by public authorities in raising the economic and social protection of women, children and other marginalised and vulnerable groups.

2.3.6 Serbia

The Serbian Constitution provides a good overall framework but specific legislation remains to be adopted in a number of areas, in particular anti-discrimination laws regulating the work and election of minority national councils. Much is still required to improve the conditions of children, and rehabilitation and employment of persons with disabilities.

2.3.7 Kosovo

The overall capacity of CSOs remains weak. The Government is not yet accustomed to the idea of a long-term partnership with civil society. The necessary legislative and financial mechanisms for its support remain rudimentary. The civil society sector is re-focusing its attention from post-crisis activities to building democracy as well as being involved in economic, social and cultural development.

Implementation concentrates on minority rights but the protection of women against domestic violence, protection, education and development of children, integration and protection of people with disabilities all require close attention. Also, the implementation of legislation regarding gender equality should be improved.

2.3.8 Turkey

The legal framework for the freedom of assembly is broadly in line with European standards. Citizens have been able to exercise this right without interference from the authorities but the financial viability of the CSO sector remains under risk. NGOs rely too heavily on foreign funding from the EU and other international donors.

Despite reforms, the participation of NGOs in all sectors of democratic life remains limited. Their participation in policy-making and related formal structures is improving at a slower pace and requires further attention. This is partly due to the limited culture of collaboration in the public sector with CSOs and the lack of a standard general code of conduct for partnership in policy-making.

Concerning social rights, additional efforts are required to improve the administrative capacity of CSOs in the areas of domestic violence against women, the protection of children including education, juvenile justice system and child labour.

2.4 Link with MIPD

This project is in line with Section 2.3.1.3.6 of the IPA Multi-beneficiary Multi-annual Indicative Planning Document (MIPD) 2009-2011<sup>8</sup>. In order to ensure that civil society is fully engaged in the EU integration process, this project will complement Multi-beneficiary and National projects initiated under IPA 2008 and IPA 2009 and promote partnership actions within the Western Balkan region and Turkey.

2.5 Link with National Development Plans

Under the different IPA National Programmes special attention has been given to strengthen the capacity of CSOs mainly by specific calls for proposals and in some cases (e.g. Croatia and Turkey) by providing advisory services and training. Civil society capacity building continues to gain in importance and this Multi-beneficiary project will complement national programmes by providing multi-country cooperation and exchange opportunities.

Close cooperation is also foreseen with the Regional Cooperation Council (RCC). The work of the RCC focuses on several priority areas and the RCC will be encouraged to establish close cooperation and contacts with CSOs.

3. Description of the project

3.1 Background and justification

Civil Society remains important for the acceptance and implementation of the values of the European Union in potential Member States. At a political level, further legislation has still to be adopted and effectively implemented and enforced. For a beneficiary to be able to advance towards European accession, legislation and principles have to be recognised among citizens and be regularly monitored. Civil Society continues to be crucial in this respect.

To increase the role of civil society in EU integration, the overall strategy for supporting civil society developed in the framework of IPA 2008 under the CSF constitutes an essential instrument in both the national and multi-beneficiary/regional programmes. The Commission Communication of 5 November 2008<sup>9</sup> underlines the importance of the CSF for the increased participation of CSOs in the reforms to be undertaken in the enlargement countries.

The CSF consists of three strands, all of which will be included in this project:

- i. Support to civic initiatives and capacity-building thereby enforcing the role of civil society at local and national level.
- ii. A “People 2 People” (“P2P”) programme supporting visits to EU institutions and bodies to exchange experiences, know-how and good practice between Beneficiaries and EU CSOs.
- iii. Partnership Actions carried out between beneficiary and EU CSOs leading to a transfer of knowledge and the creation and strengthening of networks.

Phase II of the Technical Assistance Project will continue to address the needs of CSOs identified but not covered under Phase I in order to increase their capacity, improve their democratic role and to continue to promote networks of CSOs across regional borders.

The “P2P” programme will continue to arrange visits of people belonging to organisations and/or individuals who may thereafter disseminate information in their home country by way of local information channels, meetings and discussions.

Regarding Partnership Actions, the European Commission has drawn attention to the matters of gender equality and children’s rights in the Western Balkans<sup>10</sup>. Under the EC Communication on Women<sup>11</sup>, the European Commission reiterated its commitment to promote gender equality. EC funding for the empowerment of men and women is available as a cross-cutting issue in the European Initiative for Human Rights (EIDHR) programme but there have been no initiatives that focus exclusively on gender in the framework of civil society. In addition, a recent DfID<sup>12</sup> report points out that gender inequalities exist in leadership, decision-making and education, and notes the deterioration of the economic and political position of women in the Balkan region.

The project will encourage more and effective coordination and interaction partnership between EU and Western Balkan stakeholders and will contribute to the development of a strengthened regional network on gender equality. Activities will aim for partnerships between organisations both local and within the EU.

With regard to children’s rights, the European Commission made clear in the Communication on Strategic Objectives 2005-2009 that “A particular priority must be effective protection of the rights of children, both against economic exploitation and all forms of abuse, with the Union acting as a beacon to the rest of the world”. In April 2005, Commissioners in charge of Fundamental, Rights, Non-discrimination and Equal Opportunities introduced a new plan for the promotion, protection and fulfilment of children’s rights in the internal and external policies of the EU.

A recent study by UNICEF highlights the critical condition of child victims of violence and the “acute need of reform of child protection systems in the region, better identification and referral of cases of violence against children”. The study underlines the importance of equipping civil society and public authorities with the means to monitor, report and advocate the rights of children and to encourage the further exchange of good practices and lessons learned from the region and Member States. The project will promote partnership actions and intensify the protection of children from violence and bring about changes to the conditions of children.

The projects under IPA 2010 will not only continue to complement actions launched under IPA 2008 and 2009 but also will additionally cover the needs of CSOs and support schemes to civil society partnerships that give priority to women and children.

3.2 Assessment of project impact, catalytic effect, sustainability and cross-border impact

The project will complement initiatives of other donors and the Regional Cooperation Council (RCC). It will be regularly monitored and evaluated to allow for readjustments. The project will contribute towards participative democracy by enhancing civil society bodies, their role in society and their understanding of EU integration, policies and the role of EU institutions. It will also foster partnerships that support the adoption of good practices and standards tackling problems of great importance to the Western Balkans and Turkey.

The project should be seen as a catalyst for the development of regional and sectoral networking, exchanges of experience and information, as well as the sharing of common benchmarks. It seeks to increase regional cooperation and networking among regional CSOs inter se and with CSOs from EU and other stakeholders, encouraging in particular partnership with CSOs and public authorities. Networks established through different project activities should help support the sustainability of the action once the support from the European Commission has ended.

The project will principally benefit the general public. It sets out to increase both the involvement of citizens in society and its awareness of the role of civil society in the light of eventual accession to the EU as well as of EU policy and initiatives in which the general public may exercise a strong influence.

3.3 Expected results and measurable indicators

The involvement of CSOs in the democratic process through multilateral partnership is considered the appropriate method of improving the development, function and involvement of civil society and of increasing the influence of civil society region-wide on broadly defined activities and monitoring the results of actions taken.

The following results are expected. Ideally, they will be verified two years after completion of the project using the indicators set out below.

3.3.1 Technical Assistance Phase II (Indicative Budget: EUR 6.70 million)

Expected results:

- Enhanced cooperation and networking among CSOs from the Beneficiaries, and with CSOs from the EU;
- Increased understanding by CSOs of EU affairs;
- Development of common EU regional principles, values and good practices.

Measurable indicators

- Number of CSOs targeted;
- Proportion of training courses brought further up to date;

- Network and networking enhanced among CSOs from the Beneficiaries and with CSOs from the EU
- Information system throughout the region established

Measurable indicators:

- Number of new partnerships at regional, national and EU levels created
- Organisation of local events or campaigns with multiplier effect following the study visits at national or regional levels

Indicators will be reviewed and developed at each stage in order to offer a high quality and extensive reflection of the achievements of the “P2P”programme and the programme may later be adjusted in order to respond more closely to the above objectives.

3.3.3.1 Partnership action: Empowerment of women (Indicative Budget: EUR 1.65 million)

Measurable indicators:

- Number of new partnerships and networks formed;
- Increased membership in these CSO;
- Number and quality of structures for CSO/government interaction;

Expected results:

- Enhanced monitoring systems and improved capacity of CSOs that work with vulnerable families and children;
- Awareness raised about the condition of children and encourage joint actions through networks and organisations both within the region and with the EU;
- Strengthened interaction of CSOs with decision-makers.

Measurable indicators:

- Number of new monitoring systems developed;
- Number of new joint actions between CSO in the region and governments;
- Number of networks between CSOs in the region and the EU established.

3.4 Main activities:

3.4.1. Technical Assistance Phase II

The aim is to continue the regional technical assistance started in 2009, which inter alia is to analyse and identify the priority needs of the civil society sector in the region, design and deliver training programmes, develop communication tools, support the creation of a regional Civil Society Forum, evaluate the impact of (donor-funded) actions, monitor the implementation of grants awarded following EU calls for proposals, and to make a needs analysis supporting future programming.

3.4.2. “P2P” programme

The third phase will complement the programme of study visits organised between 2008 and 2010.

3.4.3. Partnership action: empowerment of women

The aim is to support activities as follows:

- Regional network: development of links between Beneficiary and EU women’s organisations (focusing on campaigning for women’s rights, lobbying governments, monitoring progress of governments);
- Standards and lesson-learning: workshops involving CSOs and government representatives sharing experiences across EU and accession states on experiences of civil society working with governments promoting gender equality and women’s empowerment;
- Study tours: visits to government bodies and CSOs in EU states demonstrating good practice on gender equality and women’s empowerment and government/CSO partnership;
- Regional awareness-raising: of the importance of gender equality to economic development and as a requirement prior to accession.

These activities should lead to increased professionalism and cooperation among primarily the civil society but also indirectly governments in the region. With the knowledge gained through activities and partnership between experts, it should be possible to improve the strategy and monitoring of national programmes.

3.4.4. Partnership action: Protection of children from violence

The activities performed by UNICEF aim to ensure a better understanding of the condition of children in the region and to increase interaction at all levels between institutions for the protection of children as follows:

- Give information to main stakeholder institutions, particularly schools, and provide a strategic focus to strengthen their capacity and exchange practices;
- Develop community-based day care and pre-school service models through pilot projects implemented by local communities;
- Establish a regional platform to promote exchange of practices and lessons learned among the various institutions involved the project.
- Identify gaps in current protection systems in effective identification and referral of cases of violence against children to encourage better interaction between all levels of children's protection institutions.
- Identify existing child rights monitoring systems used by civil society, national Bar Associations, children's networks, national Parliaments and others.
- Conduct regional consultations and study tours in selected European Union and other countries of Parliamentarians, civil society, national Bars Associations, children's networks and key government partners from the Balkans.
- Disseminate European standards for independent children's rights institutions in the Balkans.
- Share information and strategies among independent children's rights institutions and organisations with a particular focus on independent monitoring and protection of children's rights

3.5 Risks and assumptions

The development of a civil society culture in the region requires political stability and a favourable environment for the enhancement of CSOs and civil society dialogue. The present general political framework within the Western Balkans and Turkey should allow for dialogue and development of and with CSOs.

Consequently, partner CSOs and/or authorities from the Western Balkans and Turkey should be willing to establish and improve their exchange of information. CSOs should wholeheartedly work together to establish alliances and coalitions to help strengthen advocacy, etc. These efforts will fail if the authorities implement policies and actions that are counterproductive to achieving a civil society culture. It is therefore of paramount importance that the EU and other donors keep a close eye on this and take appropriate measures if necessary. It is very important that donors remain committed to a strong civil society in the region.

CSOs have to demonstrate their legitimacy and credibility as reliable and constructive partners representing important elements of society: citizens should trust CSOs. In addition, beneficiary CSOs should be keen on establishing partnerships with other CSOs within the region and the EU and they should have the capacity to absorb and successfully implement contracts awarded to them. These matters will be analysed thoroughly during the selection process of proposals.

Another crucial issue is long-term sustainability. Many CSOs in the region do not have a membership basis and depend wholly on donors to finance their activities. Another related risk is that many CSOs fail to address citizens' needs and interests. The great risk is that donors inflate civil society and do not ensure long-term sustainability and a high level of grass-root participation.

3.6 Linked Activities

3.6.1 Multi-beneficiary Multi-annual Indicative Planning Document (MIPD)

This project has been designed on the basis of the Multi-beneficiary MIPD 2009-2011 (Section 2.3.1.3.6) in which support to Civil Society Dialogue and Development is a main element of the overall EC strategy regarding Civil Society.

3.6.2 Prior Regional or Multi-beneficiary Programmes

- CARDS 2003: “Democratic Stabilisation - Civil Society Development and Network Building (‘Network to Network’)”
- CARDS 2006: “Consolidating Partnership between Civil Society Organisations and Public Authorities for Raising Minority Rights in the Region”
- Phare 2006: “Business Support Programme”
- IPA 2007: “Support to Media Production in South East Europe”
- IPA 2008: “Civil Society Facility”
- IPA 2009: “Civil Society Facility”

3.6.3 National IPA Programmes

National assistance targets the first strand of the CSF and covers aspects that require grassroots intervention and capacity building of small civil society groups with the purpose of enhancing their influence and participation in political and legal decisions, particularly in the light of eventual European integration.

3.6.4 Other Donor Assistance (e.g. EU Member States)

Donors such as USAID, UN agencies, the World Bank, CIDA, SIDA, DfID continue to be engaged in strengthening civil society within democracy-building projects. Another important donor, which is often forgotten, is the national government both on national and local level.

It is vital that there be very good coordination between donors. The intention is that the Advisory Groups already established under the Technical Assistance project serve this purpose.

3.7 Lessons learned

Under previous projects to support civil society (see 3.6.2 above) there have been some important achievements. Networks and partnerships have been established and strengthened, and information on the EU acquis has been shared. However, it has become apparent that the vast majority of these networks and partnerships include only CSOs of the same nature. As a result, the involvement of other essential partners remains limited. This is why the current programme pays particular attention to cross-sectoral partnerships and networks.

To allow them to flourish, legislative frameworks, public incentives and indeed the perception of CSOs among the general public should improved. The Technical Assistance will continue to provide valuable input for this. Furthermore, the T/A will provide guidance to the projects acting as a mediator/facilitator.

Experience has also shown that support to Civil Society is considered as being too fragmented. Therefore this programme will follow the path set by the CSF in strengthening the overall coordination and coherence of assistance and activities carried on or funded by the EU, its Member States and other public and private donors. DG Enlargement endeavours to improve coordination by organising regular meetings throughout the year with authorities in the Western Balkans and Turkey, Delegations and stakeholders.

One of the principal issues in this coordination will be the co-financing of projects. Under this programme, it will be necessary to establish partnerships involving CSOs from different backgrounds, which will also allow for more financially powerful CSOs such as Business Representative Organisations to be involved. Moreover, under the current Technical Assistance local steering committees composed of CSO representatives and donors have been established throughout the IPA region.

These committees are also open to private donors (foundations, etc.) giving them the opportunity to co-finance projects selected under EU calls for proposals. Such coordination not only saves much time but also ensures that less financially powerful CSOs are able to participate in calls for proposals launched by the Commission.

6. Cross-cutting issues

6.1 Equal Opportunities

The principle of equal opportunities between women and men should be taken into account when evaluating the quality of all projects proposed under both components and during all phases of their implementation. Specific attention will be paid to the gender dimension when determining the benefit of training activities. While implementing the project activities and to the extent applicable, Beneficiary authorities will try to assure that gender disaggregated data will be made available to carry out an analysis of the social and economic impact of the actions undertaken.

6.2 Environment

Beneficiaries shall ensure that during implementation of their actions due consideration be given to their Governments’ development policies relating to environmental management and that such policies are embodied within all strategic policy documents that they may draft and all training activities that they may carry out.

6.3 Minorities

Intercultural dialogue should be favoured and the rights of minorities and other vulnerable groups, including Roma, should be taken into account when evaluating the quality of all projects proposed under the overall components. While implementing the project activities and to the extent applicable, Beneficiary authorities will try to assure that national disaggregated data will be made available to carry out an analysis of the social and economic, as well as cultural impact of the actions undertaken
